(<http://www.biosculpturetechnology.com>) is proud to announce the availability of their patented Airbrush Liposculpture System. This system is based on an intrinsically safer and much gentler twin-cannula design. This design allows for fast, effortless and less traumatic procedures and also offers a much more precise fat removal.

Many patients don't realize it, but liposuction actually involves quite a bit of physical labor for the doctor. Because the doctor has to use all his or her strength to perform the procedure, the doctor may not be able to focus as much as they would like on a smooth and even fat removal and feathering. Of course, techniques are taught to allow the surgeon to provide satisfactory results, but with the right equipment a doctor can provide much smoother and more artistic results for their patients.

BioSculpture Technology, Inc. states that the Airbrush Liposculpture System "unleashes the artist in the surgeon" because the system allows the doctor to continually adapt the speed and stroke of the liposuction cannula, achieving the desired artistic result. This system also does away with the battering ram effect of a reciprocating cannula on the patient, as the twin cannula system reduces tissue trauma and can also work to reduce bleeding, bruising, and swelling. Surgeons that have used the system comment that it is "revolutionary" or "evolutionary" and they want to know when and where they can get one so they can start using it.

of the liposuction portfolio of Rocin Laboratories and specializes in the advanced dual cannula system of power assisted liposuction which offers dramatic advantages over less sophisticated methods. The aim of the company is to develop surgical devices which make the surgical experience safer, more predictable and more pleasant for both patient and doctor.
